"A superb seafront situation along Sardinia's east coast ensures guests at this 8-bedroom villa with pool enjoys unobstructed views over the Mediterranean Sea and the fortified town of Alghero, as well as direct access to crystal clear waters".

Built according to the most advanced contemporary design, the interiors seamlessly blend in with the surrounding Mediterranean landscape and seascape as the light streams in through large windows. The villa boasts eight bedroom suites, all naturally bright and equipped with the latest comforts, with modern and functional furniture, private bathroom and access to the garden and the pool. All rooms are exposed to the south and therefore enjoy the sun that, during the day, crosses the harbour of Alghero from East to West. The magnificent vista encompasses the harbour of Alghero to its beaches, and then to Bosa towards the south and Capo Caccia towards the west.

The coastline and the seascape are absolutely stunning and offer visitors scenic views and opportunities to enjoy the unparalleled natural beauty of this area of western Sardinia. Guests can go to one of the many equipped beaches of Fertilia, take a walk to its marina and rent a dinghy, book a boat trip along the coast or a diving experience. Maybe get a scuba licence at one of the many accredited schools in the area. You can visit the numerous workshops where skilled artisans work the red coral located in the magnificent historic centre of Alghero, rich in history and traditions. Originally a Catalan colony, this port town still retains its Catalan language and gastronomic traditions. At night, after a barbecue in the terrace or a lavish dinner of Catalan lobsters, sea urchins and Vermentino wine, you can enjoy a good beer in one of the many bistros that until late at night give life to the porticoes of Fertilia.
